

Investment Objective

The investment objective of Heritage Global Capital Fund is for its clients to generate attractive long-term risk-adjusted returns and preserve capital by investing in companies that we believe are undervalued. We seek to achieve the investment objective by investing in publicly-listed companies that are trading at a significant discount to its underlying value and in the midst of a down cycle. The success of our investment strategy lies in our propriety framework that we have developed focusing primarily on risk management. Our default investment is cash, and we allocate cash to opportunities according to their margin of safety and expected annualised returns.

Investment Strategy

As value investors, we seek companies trading at a price fractional of their liquidation or fair values. We believe that over time, the price of the security will eventually reflect the fair value of the underlying business. We use a mixture of quantitative analysis, fundamental research, behavioural insights and the emphasis on capital cycles.

At the heart of our investment philosophy, it is the capital cycle approach to investments. It is based on the idea that the prospect of high returns will attract excessive capital; hence huge competition, and vice versa. We aim to identify sectors that are in its down-cycle and that are starved of capital. This is followed by detailed research-based analysis of the fundamentals of the companies within this sector to uncover publicly-listed companies that are selling at a significant discount to its intrinsic value historically.

Given the contrarian and long-term nature of the capital cycle, the strategy results in strong views versus the market and long holding periods (3 – 5 years). Such a disciplined and patient deep value investing approach allows us to seek superior risk-adjusted returns with limited volatility.

The fund is diversified across countries and industries in 20 – 30 companies at any given time.
